Appointment of Successor Announced at Once.

Wilkinson Gives His Version of Johnson Fight.

Sheriff J. M. Wilkerson today handed in his resignation as sheriff to Governor W. R. Stubbs and it was accepted forthwith and Under Sheriff J. D. Norton was appointed to fill out the unexpired term of one and one-half years.

Colonel Jonathan D. Norton, Who Succeeded J. M. Wilkerson as Sheriff Today.

Mr. Wilkerson resigned on the condition that Col. Norton be appointed as his successor. The governor, after calling up and talking with leading Republicans of the city and county quickly made up his mind that Col. Norton was the logical and acceptable man for the place and within a few hours after receiving the Wilkerson resignation announced his intention to appoint Col. Norton to the place.

Wilkerson has been feeling blue over the disgrace to his office occasioned by the fight between Deputy Ward and Ben Johnson. The governor, after calling up and talking with leading Republicans of the city and county quickly made up his mind that Col. Norton was the logical and acceptable man for the place and within a few hours after receiving the Wilkerson resignation announced his intention to appoint Col. Norton to the place.

Col. Jonathan D. Norton is well known in Shawnee county as a man of business ability and unquestioned integrity. An effort was made to bring him out in the race for sheriff last fall, but he refused to run against Wilkerson, but has announced his intention of becoming a candidate for the coming term. He has been under sheriff and has had charge of the office work ever since Wilkerson's election two years and a half ago, and although the habits of the two men are in no way similar, they have been the greatest of friends. Col. Norton admired Wilkerson for his ability as an officer, and Wilkerson joined many others in their admiration of Col. Norton as a gentleman of sterling worth.

Wilkerson Gives His Version. Today John Wilkerson gave his version of the fight Friday night in which Ben Johnson was injured. It is practically a repetition of the story he told the night of the occurrence, with more of the details.

He said: "Friday afternoon, about 5 o'clock I took Ward and drove to the Palace clothing store to purchase a straw hat. We stopped in front of the store, and Johnson was standing there. We talked him into coming, and then I told him to come in and get a hat. I bought a hat for each of us, Ward, Johnson and myself, and left our hats with him. As Ward and I climbed into the buggy, Johnson said, 'Wait a minute, I am going your way,' and climbed in with us. We stopped in front of his house, and I went to serve some papers at the request of Attorney Spencer. Johnson and Ward were about the court house while I was gone. When I came back, I saw that Johnson was getting in bad shape, and I telephoned for a hack to take him home. The hack came, but Johnson refused to go, and the hack stood out in front for a long time. I was behind my desk when the first demonstration was made, and I saw Johnson jump up and said: 'You're going to be for me, ain't you?' 'No, I said, 'I am for Colonel Norton.' 'What do you care?' Johnson yelled. 'Didn't I tell you you last fall, you—?' 'At the same time he reached up and grabbed the electric light, tore it away from the ceiling and threw it on the floor.

"That is a plenty from you," I said, 'now you have got to go.' I grabbed him around the waist, but before I got both his arms pinned down, he hit me in the face. Instead of hitting him, I got the loose arm and was backing him toward the door. It was while I was holding Ben that Judge Schoch came in and saw the tussle. I am sure he saw enough to convince him that I was not trying to hurt Ben. Ward had been tagging around after Ben, begging him to go home. He was carrying Ben's hat and coat. On account of my broken ankle, I was afraid of hurting my leg. Ward jumped in to help, and I got out of it as soon as I could. As I let go of Ben, he turned and struck at Ward, who dropped the hat and coat and closed with him. Ward got hit in the face, and waded in to fight. He knocked

Johnson against the safe, and then they fought back across the room until Ward got in another blow and knocked Ben against the glass door. The story that Ward struck Johnson with his revolver, is nonsense. Wilkerson's only revolver is a small pocket affair, weighing less than a pound, and although they were fighting furiously, I could see the whole thing and Ward did not use anything but his fists.

"This is the whole story, just exactly as it occurred. It is the straight truth, I believe, and I think the people who have known me for any length of time will vouch for my truth and veracity."

In regard to Johnson's injuries, Wilkerson said: "Ward was fighting mad, and so was Johnson, and the fight was fierce, but Ben's injuries were due to his falls, and not any intention on the part of Ward."

George Ward admits that he was mad when he fought with Johnson. "He hit me when I was trying to hold him," said Ward. "I started, my intention was to take Johnson out to the back. That is what Uncle John told me to do. I had more to say about the fight, and Johnson was awful man, too."

Ward's face is bruised, and a small bone in his right hand is broken and the hand is badly swollen.

County Attorney Schenck said today: "I have known John Wilkerson for many years, and if he was drunk this time, he was not the first to be by a large majority. But in all the time I have known him, I have found him to be absolutely truthful in even the smallest details, and I have never known him to be a liar. He is a man of the truth, and he would have been of material benefit to him, but he did not desire the truth a particle. I have more to say about the fight and what will be done about it, when I know more about it."

T. L. Marshall, a Banker, Talks of Bank Guaranty Law.

T. L. Marshall, the well known Osage county banker, is in the city today on business. Speaking of the guaranty of deposits, he said that in his opinion this plan had come to stay and that bankers had just as well make up their minds to accept it. He thought that the Kansas guaranty law was a wise and practical administration of the scheme of guaranty. Mr. Marshall is a conservative and successful of the country bankers of the state.
